

Code of Conduct

DRESSER-RAND[®]

Letter from the President and Chief Executive Officer

Dear Colleague:

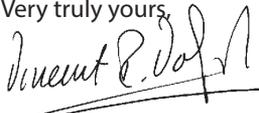

The Dresser-Rand Code of Conduct (the “Code”) is about the combined values and standards of behavior that make Dresser-Rand a trusted and respected global organization. We are involved in a competitive industry, and our clients, suppliers, communities and shareholders are all expecting and demanding more of us. These demands have an impact on all of us, no matter where we are in the organization. We are all challenged to find creative and innovative ways to get the job done. We applaud your efforts, and take this opportunity to thank you for the contributions you have made to the Company’s success.

It is each employee’s responsibility to exercise sound business judgment and act honestly and ethically. We are required not only to “do the job” but to “do it the right way.” Doing it the right way means conducting ourselves with ethics and integrity in all that we do.

As your employer, the Company’s obligation goes beyond simply stating that you should always conduct yourself professionally and ethically at work. With this Code, we are formalizing the values that have made us the company we are today and which will carry us forward into the future. This Code describes the fundamental ethical standards that govern all of the work we do, and sets forth the duties and obligations for all our employees under those policies.

Please take time to read this Code, and continue in the Dresser-Rand tradition of hard work with integrity.

Very truly yours,

Vincent R. Volpe Jr.
President & Chief Executive Officer

INTRODUCTION

This Code of Conduct (the “Code”) describes the basic principles of conduct that we share as directors, officers and employees of Dresser-Rand Group Inc. (“Dresser-Rand”) and its affiliates (collectively with Dresser-Rand, the “Company”) and provides guidance on how to identify and report concerns regarding possible violations of the Code or illegal behavior.

• Who Must Follow the Code

All officers and employees of the Company are required to comply with this Code. This Code also applies to the non-employee members of the board of directors or similar governing bodies of Dresser-Rand or any of its affiliates (each, a “Director”) and must be followed by our agents and representatives, including consultants. We also expect our suppliers to honor these basic principles of conduct.

• Your Responsibilities

This Code is intended to provide a broad overview of basic ethical principles that should be used to guide your conduct. In some circumstances, we maintain more specific policies on the topics referred to in this Code. You are required to read and learn the details of the policies dealing with your work, and have a basic understanding of issues covered by the other policies relating to this Code. The Company’s policies may be found in various locations based on subject matter on the Company’s intranet site, <http://drnet/>.

This Code is a living document, meaning that it may change from time to time. This Code is not an employment contract between you and the Company.

• Leadership Responsibilities

Leaders in our Company have a special obligation regarding compliance with the Code, and are responsible for:

- Building and maintaining a culture of compliance by:
 - ♦ Leading by example, using their own behavior as a model for all employees
 - ♦ Personally leading compliance efforts through periodic meetings with direct reports and regular monitoring of compliance matters and programs
 - ♦ Ensuring employees understand that business

results are never more important than ethics and compliance with law

- ◆ Encouraging employees to raise their integrity questions and concerns
- ◆ Using employee actions and judgments in promoting and complying with Company policies as considerations when evaluating and rewarding employees

■ Preventing compliance problems by:

- ◆ Ensuring that compliance risks associated with the business processes under the leader's management are systematically identified
- ◆ Ensuring that policies and procedures, tailored to the particular risk areas faced by a business, are developed and communicated
- ◆ Ensuring that each officer, employee or third-party representative of the Company whose activities may involve issues covered by other specific Company policies are made aware of and provided a copy of each such policy
- ◆ Making education and legal counseling available to ensure that employees and, where appropriate, third parties understand the requirements of the Code, other Company policies and applicable laws and regulations

■ Responding to compliance problems by:

- ◆ Taking prompt corrective action to fix any identified weaknesses in compliance measures
- ◆ Taking appropriate disciplinary action when violations of this Code, other Company policies or applicable laws or regulations occur

Key Points

Leaders should:

- Build and maintain a culture of compliance.
- Prevent compliance problems.
- Detect compliance problems.
- Respond to compliance problems.

- ◆ Consulting with the Company's Law Department and making appropriate disclosures to the Company's auditors (internal and external), regulators and law enforcement authorities

BASIC PRINCIPLES OF CONDUCT

• Health and Safety

We strive to provide a safe and healthy work environment, and act with care and respect for the environment and the people who live in the communities where we conduct business. We ensure a safe and healthy work environment by following safety and health rules and practices and promptly reporting accidents, injuries and unsafe equipment, practices, or conditions to a supervisor or more senior manager or a health and safety officer.

We do not permit violence or threatening behavior in our workplaces. We report to work in condition to perform our duties at our best, free from the influence of illegal drugs or alcohol. We do not tolerate the use of illegal drugs in the workplace.

• Compliance with Laws, Rules and Regulations

The Company conducts business in numerous countries around the world. It is our policy to comply with all national and local laws, rules, and regulations of the countries where we do business. These laws include, among many others, those related to anti-corruption, anti-bribery, anti-money laundering, export and import controls and environmental protection. If a law, rule, or regulation is unclear, or you think it conflicts with a provision of this Code or some other applicable law, rule or regulation, you should always seek the advice of your supervisor or the Company's General Counsel. In the case of a potential or actual conflict between or among any applicable laws or regulations, the General Counsel shall determine in his or her reasonable judgment the proper course of action to be followed.

• Conflicts of Interest

We conduct our business affairs in the best interests of our Company and should avoid situations where our private interests interfere in any way with our Company's interests. We must be especially sensitive to situations that have even the appearance of impropriety. Conflicts of interest can arise when an employee, officer or Director takes an action or has an interest that may make it difficult for the employee, officer or Director to render objective decisions on behalf of the Company or to perform his or her duties effectively. Conflicts of interest also arise when an employee, officer or Director, or a member of his or her family, receives improper personal benefits (including loans, guarantees of obligations or acquisitions of interests in transactions involving the Company or its clients or suppliers) as a result of his or her (or his or her family member's) position with the Company. Conflicts of interest may also arise when the Company engages in a transaction in which a family member of an employee, officer or Director has an interest, particularly in circumstances where the transaction was not approved in advance by a disinterested officer or employee who was informed of such interest. If you believe that a transaction, relationship or other circumstance creates or may create a conflict of interest, you should promptly report this concern. It is our policy that circumstances that pose a conflict of interest for our employees are prohibited unless a waiver is obtained from an appropriate Company officer. Consistent with the New York Stock Exchange ("NYSE") rules, and as further described below, any waiver of this conflict of interest policy for a Director or executive officer of Dresser-Rand may only be made by our Board, and any such waiver should be appropriately disclosed in a report filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC") within four business days of the waiver. Examples of conflicts of interest include:

- ♦ Activities that compete against the Company in any business activity;
- ♦ A misuse of Company resources;
- ♦ Taking on other assignments that impair your ability to fully and faithfully perform your obligations to the Company; or
- ♦ Actions or omissions not in the best interests of the Company that you otherwise would have avoided.

Regardless of whether a conflict of interest is involved, no officer or employee shall enter into any transaction with the Company without previously disclosing such officer's or employee's interest in that transaction to the officer's or employee's supervisor. Any Company officer subject to the reporting requirements of Section 16 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, shall

Key Points

What constitutes a conflict of interest:

- Competing against the Company.
- Misuse of Company resources.
- Other assignments that impair your ability to do your job.
- Actions or omissions against the best interests of the Company.

Key Points

- The Company relies on accurate and honest record keeping.
- Illegal or improper accounting is strictly forbidden.
- Business records and communications are to be kept professional at all times.

also provide previous disclosure to the Nominating and Governance Committee of any such interest. These disclosures shall not apply to (a) compensation or other benefits provided by the Company, (b) benefits pursuant to the Company's standard relocation policy, or (c) the reimbursements of travel and entertainment expenses in accordance with Company policy.

• Service on Boards of Directors of For-Profit Companies

Service on the board of directors of a company that is organized for profit typically involves a significant commitment of an individual's time and effort. The demands of such service may not be compatible with the responsibilities of an officer or employee of the Company. Accordingly, prior to accepting any directorship position with a company that is organized for profit, the Chief Executive Officer ("CEO") shall obtain written approval from the Board of Directors of the Company or the Nominating and Governance Committee thereof, and any other officer or employee of the Company who reports directly to the CEO shall obtain the written approval of the CEO.

• Record-keeping

We require honest and accurate recording and reporting of information, both internally and externally, in order to make responsible business decisions. We document and record our business expenses accurately.

All of our books, records, accounts, and financial statements are maintained in reasonable detail, appropriately reflect our transactions, and conform both to applicable legal requirements and to our system of internal controls. It is strictly forbidden to mischaracterize any transaction, to use, authorize or condone any "off book" accounting or unrecorded bank accounts or any other device that could be utilized to distort the Company's true operating results and financial condition.

We avoid exaggeration, derogatory remarks, guesswork, or inappropriate characterizations of people and companies in our business records and communications. We maintain our records according to our record retention policies.

• Public Reporting

We are required to file reports and other documents with the SEC. We also issue press releases and make other public statements that include financial and other information about our business, financial condition and results of operations. We endeavor to make full, fair, accurate, timely and understandable disclosure in reports and documents we file with, or submit to, the SEC and in our press releases and public communications.

We require cooperation and open communication with our internal and external auditors. It is illegal to take any action to fraudulently influence, coerce, manipulate, or mislead any internal or external auditor engaged in the performance of an audit of our financial statements.

The laws and regulations applicable to filings made with the SEC, including those applicable to accounting matters, are complex. While the ultimate responsibility for the information included in these reports rests with senior management, numerous other employees participate in the preparation of these reports or provide information included in these reports. We maintain disclosure controls and procedures to ensure that the information included in the reports that we file or submit to the SEC is collected and communicated to senior management in order to permit timely disclosure of the required information.

If you are requested by management to provide, review or certify information in connection with our disclosure controls and procedures, you must provide the requested information or otherwise respond in a full, accurate and timely manner. Moreover, even in the absence of a specific request, you should report to senior management any significant information that you believe should be considered for disclosure in our reports to the SEC.

• Insider Trading

We do not trade in Company securities on the basis of material, non-public information concerning the Company, nor do we “tip” others who may trade in Company securities. The Company has a securities insider trading policy (which deals with insider trading and “tipping”) and a related non-disclosure policy (which deals with the publication of material statements about the Company and who is permitted to make such statements), both of which can be obtained from the DRNet or by a written request made to the General Counsel.

Key Points

- The Company endeavors to fulfill SEC obligations in an accurate and timely manner.
- Illegal influence of an auditor engaged in business with the Company is strictly forbidden.
- Contributions to SEC reports must be completed in an accurate and timely manner.

Key Points

We do not:

- Trade in Company securities based on non-public information.

Key Points

We do not:

- Covertly accept opportunities gained through the use of Company property.
- Engage in unethical or illegal business practices.

Key Points

- Gifts given and received must meet certain criteria to avoid being misconstrued.
- If you are unsure of the entertainment and gift policy, check with a supervisor.

• Corporate Opportunities

We do not personally take advantage of opportunities that are discovered through the use of Company property, information or position without the prior consent of our Board, nor do we use Company property, information, or position for personal gain. Employees, officers and Directors owe a duty to the Company to advance its legitimate interests when the opportunity to do so arises. Our Directors, officers, and employees are also prohibited from competing with the Company.

• Competition and Fair Dealing

We outperform our competition fairly and honestly by developing leading services and products based on design and performance. We do not engage in unethical or illegal business practices such as stealing proprietary information, misrepresenting facts, possessing or using confidential information of another party that was obtained improperly, or inducing disclosure of this type of information by past or present employees of other companies. Nor do we improperly offer any payments or other things of value in exchange for business opportunities. Each employee, officer and Director shall endeavor to deal fairly with the Company's clients, suppliers, competitors and employees. No employee, officer or Director will take unfair advantage of anyone through manipulation, concealment, abuse of privileged information or any other unfair practice.

• Business Entertainment and Gifts - Generally

We recognize that business entertainment and gifts are meant to create goodwill and sound working relationships, not to gain unfair advantage with clients or suppliers. Neither we nor our family members offer, give, or accept any gift, entertainment, or anything else having value unless it:

- ♦ Is not a cash or cash equivalent gift (such as a gift card or a travelers check)
- ♦ Is consistent with customary business practices
- ♦ Is not excessive in value
- ♦ Cannot be construed as a kickback, bribe or payoff
- ♦ Does not violate any applicable laws or regulations.

• Discrimination and Harassment

The diversity of our employees is a tremendous asset. We provide equal opportunity in all aspects of employment and will not tolerate discrimination or harassment of any kind, including derogatory comments, unwelcome sexual advances and similar behaviors. Equally so, we will not tolerate retaliation against any person who opposes, reports, or serves as a witness with respect to allegations of discrimination or harassment.

• Confidentiality

We protect confidential information. Confidential information includes proprietary information such as our trade secrets, know-how, business and marketing plans, sales forecasts, engineering and manufacturing ideas, designs, innovations, databases, records, salary information, and unpublished financial data and reports, as well as any non-public information that might be of use to competitors or harmful to us or our customers if disclosed. It also includes information that suppliers and clients have entrusted to us on a confidential basis. Employees, officers, and Directors must maintain the confidentiality of information entrusted to them by the Company or its customers, except when disclosure is authorized, legally mandated, or otherwise protected by law. Our commitment not to disclose confidential information continues even after employment ends.

• Privacy

We respect the privacy of all officers, Directors and employees and we maintain the confidentiality of the personal information that they provide to us for a business purpose. Access to such information is limited to managers and others with a specific need for the information in the performance of their duties. All information, including personal information, placed or sent over Company computer systems (including all related equipment, networks and network devices) may be monitored for all lawful purposes. There is no confidentiality or privilege, unless protected by law, when Company computer systems are used for personal rather than business-related purposes.

Key Points

- Discrimination and/or harassment of any kind will not be tolerated by the Company.

Key Points

The Company and its employees must maintain the strictest confidentiality in respect to:

- Past and present undisclosed company information.
- Past and present employees.
- Past and present clients.
- Past and present suppliers.

Key Points

- In accordance with law, we do not barter gifts with government officials in order to obtain business.
- The Company complies with foreign laws and customs in regards to government personnel.

• Protection and Proper Use of Company Assets

Theft, carelessness, and waste of Company assets, including confidential information, have a direct impact on our profitability and must be avoided. Company assets shall be used only for legitimate Company business purposes. Any suspected incident of abuse of Company assets, waste, fraud or theft should be immediately reported to a supervisor or, if appropriate, a more senior manager for investigation. We carefully safeguard our confidential information. Unauthorized use or distribution of confidential information is prohibited and could also be illegal, resulting in civil or even criminal penalties.

• Dealing with Government Personnel

Employees of the Company should never unlawfully give anything of value, directly or indirectly, to government officials or political candidates in order to obtain or retain business or for any other improper purpose. We do not promise, offer, or deliver to any government employee or official any gift, favor, gratuity or anything else of value for any purpose that would be improper or that would otherwise be illegal. The Law Department can provide guidance on such matters. The laws or customs of the countries in which we operate may not always be clear. However, it is our responsibility and policy to comply with those laws or customs. Our Chief Compliance Officer can provide guidance in this area.

If any employee is confronted with a demand for a bribe from anyone, such demand must be reported immediately to his or her supervisor and to the General Counsel. Facilitating payments, which are payments consisting of a nominal tip or gratuity to a minor government official to obtain or expedite the performance of that official's non-discretionary and routine duty, are only permitted in the limited circumstances described in the Dresser-Rand Global Anti-Corruption Policy and the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act – Facilitating Payments policy.

Any payments made under circumstances involving an imminent threat to the health, safety or welfare of any employee or a member of his or her family or a co-worker will generally not violate this Code, other Company policies or applicable laws due to the absence of an improper purpose on the part of the individual making the payment. If a payment is made under these emergency situations, it must be accurately recorded in the Company's books and records, and immediately reported to the employee's supervisor and the General Counsel.

- Waivers

Consistent with NYSE rules, only our Board may waive a provision of this Code for the executive officers or Directors of Dresser-Rand, and any waiver should be appropriately disclosed in a report filed with the SEC within four business days after the waiver. Waivers of this Code for any other employee may be made only by an appropriate Company officer, and then only under special circumstances.

- Reports of Illegal or Unethical Behavior

In order to encourage reports of illegal or unethical behavior (including violations of this Code), we keep all reports confidential and do not allow retaliation for good faith reports of possible misconduct by others. It is also our duty to cooperate in internal investigations of alleged misconduct.

Key Points

- All reports of illegal or unethical behavior are kept confidential.

RAISING QUESTIONS OR REPORTING CONCERNS

We must all work to ensure prompt and consistent action against unethical or illegal behavior. To the extent permitted by applicable law, this responsibility includes an obligation to report a possible violation of this Code. Oftentimes a violation of this Code will be easy to recognize and should be promptly reported to a supervisor or, if appropriate, a more senior manager. However, in some situations it is difficult to know right from wrong. Because none of us can anticipate every situation that will arise, it is important that we have a way to approach a new or sensitive question or concern. Here are some questions that can be asked:

Key Points

Questions to ask:

- Is this activity unethical?
- What is my responsibility?
- Is my supervisor aware of the situation?
- Who can I look to besides my manager?

1. What specifically am I being asked to do? Does it seem unethical or improper? This will focus the inquiry on the specific action in question, and the available alternatives. Use judgment and common sense. If something seems unethical or improper, it probably is.

2. What is my responsibility? In most situations, there is shared responsibility. Should colleagues be informed? It may help to get others involved and discuss the issue.

3. Have I discussed the issue with a supervisor? This is the basic guidance for all situations. In many cases, a supervisor will be more knowledgeable about the question and will appreciate being brought into the decision-making process. Remember that it is the supervisor's responsibility to help solve problems.

4. Should I seek help from Company management?

When it may not be appropriate to discuss an issue with a supervisor, or where you would not be comfortable approaching a supervisor with your question, discuss it with your Human Resources manager in your business unit, or the next level of management for your business unit or function. If for some reason you do not believe that your concern has been appropriately addressed, and as an alternative to the normal reporting process, you should report the concern by using the Company's toll-free Ethics Hotline. This Ethics Hotline permits confidential and, to the extent permitted by applicable law, anonymous submissions of concerns regarding alleged violations of this Code, including concerns with respect to questionable accounting or auditing matters. The Ethics Hotline is available toll-free from a number of locations, including those listed below (except in Libya and Nigeria, where it is available only by a collect call mechanism):

POLICY ADMINISTRATION

All officers and employees of the Company, as defined in the Code of Conduct, will complete the Code of Conduct Acknowledgement within the first 90 days of their employment start date. All current and active officers and employees of the Company will update their Acknowledgement of the Code of Conduct annually (to the extent that applicable law permits the Company to require such annual Acknowledgement). The collection and maintenance of the Acknowledgement will be maintained pursuant to the procedures established from time to time by the Chief HR Officer in consultation with the General Counsel or the Chief Compliance Officer. The annual re-certification Acknowledgement will supersede previous Acknowledgements and is all that is required to be maintained for tracking purposes.

Corporate HR will test each Ethics Hotline telephone number and/or web address provided in the policy to ensure they are functioning properly. A record of this system test will be maintained by corporate HR.

Where any part of this Code conflicts with federal, state, local and international country specific law and regulation, the applicable law(s) and/or regulation(s) will prevail. Exceptions to the administration of this Code are permitted where an individual's relationship with the Company has contractual considerations which must be upheld (e.g., a Collective Bargaining Agreement). All exceptions to the administration will be overseen by the Director of Organizational Development or the Chief HR Officer. Notes of exceptions will be provided and maintained with other related Code administration records.
