Message from The CEO

To all employees of Bristow and its worldwide subsidiary, affiliated and controlled joint venture companies

Among Bristow's most cherished assets are our Core Values and Code of Business Integrity (COBI), which have been integral to our culture and success. Conducting our business in a manner consistent with our Core Values and COBI enables us to win and keep the trust and confidence of our clients, regulators and other stakeholders.

Stakeholder confidence is earned every day, with every action we take. Protecting our reputation is everyone's job, and COBI will help all of us comply with the law and maintain the highest standards of ethical conduct.

I ask each of you to read COBI carefully and think about how our Core Values underscore and guide your everyday decisions and actions on the job. If you are unsure of what constitutes proper conduct, or believe you are in a situation that may violate, or lead to a violation of COBI, please follow the outlined reporting procedures. I also ask you to be proactive in reporting any possible breaches of our Core Values and COBI.

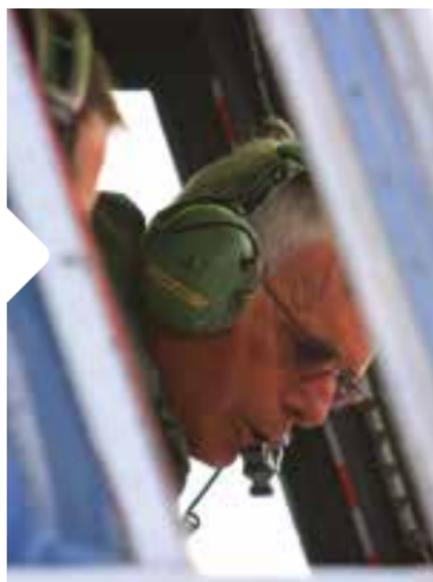

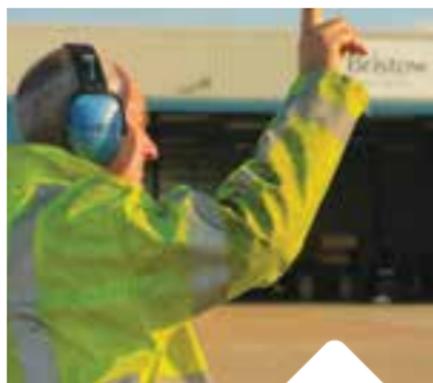

In addition to each of us being personally accountable for compliance, managers and supervisors have a particular responsibility to foster a culture in which living our Core Values is central to the way we conduct our business. Our leaders are responsible to ensure their teams are trained in all six Core Values and COBI.

Thank you for your commitment to helping us to grow, fulfill our responsibilities to our stakeholders, and continue to enjoy an outstanding reputation.

Code of Business Integrity

Application of Policies and Reporting

These policies apply to Bristow, its affiliated companies, and controlled joint ventures, (the “Company”), and to all employees, officers, and directors of the Company, (“employees”). It is expected that every employee will act with the highest ethical standards and comply with the law and these policies. Each employee must exercise good judgment and avoid any circumstance that would violate the letter or spirit of these policies. There are no exceptions to these policies, and violations will be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including dismissal from the Company.

We encourage you to raise any questions or concerns about these policies. You should be alert to any violations and should immediately report them to your supervisor, business or functional leader, a member of the legal department, or the Bristow Director of Compliance. Alternatively you may report violations confidentially, without giving your name, to THE NETWORK at 1-888-840-4147 for toll-free calls within the U.S., or 770-582-5277 for toll-free calls from most countries outside the U.S., or on THE NETWORK web reporting system at reportlineweb.com/bristow.

No adverse action will be taken against any employee for making a complaint or disclosing information in good faith. Any employee who retaliates in any way against an employee who in good faith reports any violation or suspected violation of these policies will be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including termination.

Waivers

There will be no waiver of any part of these policies, including for any director or officer, except by a vote of the Bristow Board of Directors, (the “Board”), or a designated Board committee that will ascertain whether a waiver is appropriate under the circumstances. In the case that a waiver is granted to a director or officer, the notice of such waiver shall be promptly disclosed in accordance with applicable laws, rules and regulations (including the listing standards of the New York Stock Exchange).

Training

In order to promote awareness and understanding of the policies and principles set out in this Code, the Company has introduced several training and monitoring initiatives as follows:

The Company has introduced in-person and web-based online training relating to this Code of Business Integrity and legal compliance risk areas such as global competition and anti-bribery. Completion of this training will be mandatory for all employees periodically when notified. However, for web-based online training in areas of the world where computer access is not available or for those employees who are not literate, supervisors and line managers are required to ensure the employees are fully familiar with this Code and all other policies adopted by the Company applicable to such employee's job.

Certifications

Senior and other employees including employees in a financial function will be asked to certify compliance with this Code on an annual basis.

Oversight And Monitoring

The Company has formed a Compliance Committee consisting of the CEO, CFO, General Counsel, and at least two other members of the Company's senior management team. The Director of Compliance and the Director of Internal Audit shall also be members of the Compliance Committee. This committee meets at least quarterly to highlight and discuss compliance issues and initiatives, and periodically assess the risks of non compliant conduct. Reports from this committee are presented at the first meeting of the Audit Committee of the Board which occurs thereafter. The Company's Compliance Department will regularly monitor and report on compliance with the Code of Business Integrity.

Integrity to Fellow Employees

This section contains Company policies and guidance on the following:

- EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES
- DISCRIMINATION AND HARASSMENT

Equal Employment Opportunities

The Company maintains a strong policy of equal employment opportunity for all employees and applicants for employment.

The Company hires, trains, promotes and compensates employees based upon job-related factors such as the individual's ability, work quality, attitude, competence and potential, as well as the Company's operational needs, without regard for race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, national origin, citizenship, age, marital status, veteran status or disability. These requirements may be modified by, and are subject to, applicable local laws.

The Company's equal employment opportunity philosophy applies to all aspects of employment with the Company, including but not limited to: recruiting, hiring, training, transfer, promotion, employee benefits and compensation, termination, educational assistance, leave of absence and social and recreational activities.

Discrimination and Harassment

All employees have a right to work in an environment that is free of unlawful discrimination and harassment. Any form of discrimination or harassment, whether based on race, sex, sexual orientation, color, religion, national origin, citizenship, age, veteran status or disability is unacceptable and will not be permitted.

Sexual harassment is a violation of the law and is against the policy of the Company. Sexual harassment includes, but is not limited to, verbal abuse of a sexual nature; sexually degrading words used to describe an individual; display in the workplace of sexually suggestive objects, pictures, or other graphic materials; sexual flirtations, advances or propositions; requests for sexual favors; or other verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature, when:

- Submission to, or rejection of such conduct, is used or is threatened to be used, either explicitly or implicitly, as a term of condition of employment,
- Submission to or rejection of such conduct is used or is threatened to be used as the basis for employment decisions, (i.e., hiring, promotion, increases/decreases in pay, or job assignment, transfer, termination, etc.), or
- Such conduct has the purpose or effect of unreasonably interfering with an employee's work performance, or creates an intimidating, hostile or offensive work environment.

As part of the Company's policy prohibiting sexual harassment, all forms of sexual contact between Company employees and/or agents, without regard to whether the conduct is consensual, are prohibited on Company premises.

Employees who are found to have engaged in unlawful discrimination or harassment, or to have contributed to the creation of an offensive or hostile work environment, will be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment. In addition, employees who engage in unlawful discrimination or harassment may be subject to prosecution and civil or criminal penalties.

The Company expects mutual respect and tolerance which means minority tolerance of majority as well as majority tolerance of minority. Please remember that we encourage you to raise any questions or concerns about these policies. If for any reason you are uncomfortable reporting those concerns to your supervisor or with the reporting requirements set out above, you may report concerns and violations confidentially, without giving your name, to THE NETWORK at 1-888-840-4147 for calls within the U.S., or 770-582-5277 for calls from outside the U.S. from most countries, or on THE NETWORK web reporting system at reportlineweb.com/bristow.

No adverse action will be taken against any employee for making a complaint or disclosing information in good faith. Any employee who retaliates in any way against an employee who in good faith reports any violation or suspected violation of these policies will be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including termination.

Financial Integrity

This section contains Company policies and guidance on the following:

- ACCURACY OF COMPANY RECORDS
- RECORD KEEPING
- EXTERNAL REPORTING
- TRANSFERS OF FUNDS AND PROPERTY
- RECORD RETENTION
- INSIDER TRADING
- TAXES

Accuracy of Company Records

All Company data, records and reports must be accurate, truthful and prepared in a proper manner and must be fairly presented. These include everyday documents, such as expense reports, accounting entries, cost estimates, contract proposals and other presentations to management, customers and the public. It is essential that those who rely on these records and reports—managers, creditors, customers, auditors and other decision makers—have truthful and accurate information. The integrity of the Company's accounting, technical, personnel, financial and other records is based on their validity, accuracy and completeness.

Anyone preparing the type of information described above must be diligent in assuring its integrity and anyone representing or certifying the accuracy of such information should make an inquiry or review adequate enough to establish a good faith belief in the accuracy of the information. Custodians of the Company's data, records and reports must be sure that such information is released, whether internally or outside the Company, only if adequately protected and then only for authorized purposes.

Any questionable accounting practices must be immediately reported to the Director of Compliance or Chair of the Audit Committee of the Board of Directors, including, without limitation, the following:

- fraud or deliberate error in the preparation, evaluation, review or audit of any financial statement, or the recording and maintaining of financial records;

- deficiencies in, or failure to comply with, internal accounting controls; or
- misrepresentation or false statement to or by a senior officer or accountant regarding a matter contained in the financial records, financial reports or audit reports or deviation from full and fair reporting of the Company's financial condition.

Record Keeping

The Company will maintain a system of internal accounting controls sufficient to provide reasonable assurances that:

- all transactions are executed in accordance with management's general or specific authorization;
- all transactions are recorded as necessary to maintain accountability for the Company's assets;
- access to the Company's assets is permitted only in accordance with management's general or specific authorization;
- the recorded accountability for assets is physically compared with the existing assets at reasonable intervals, and appropriate action is taken with respect to any differences; and
- no undisclosed or unrecorded funds or assets are to be established for any purpose.

Examples of an undisclosed or unrecorded fund or asset include, but are not limited to:

- numbered foreign bank accounts;
- bank accounts containing corporate funds but held in the names of individuals;
- unrecorded petty cash or "black box" funds;
- real and personal property held by a nominee;
- records that disguise any aspect of a transaction—for example, entering a payment to "X" when the payment was actually made to "Y"; and
- records reflecting qualitative misrepresentations—for example, entering a payment of $100,000 to agent "X," when in reality there was an understanding or reasonable suspicion that agent "X," on behalf (or for the benefit) of the Company would, in turn, pay $20,000 of such payment to foreign official "Y."

External Reporting

The Company files periodic reports and other documents with various regulatory authorities, including the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, (“SEC”), and the New York Stock Exchange. Employees involved in the preparation and submission of these reports and other public disclosure must ensure that the information presented is full, fair, accurate, timely and understandable.

Transfers of Funds and Property

Employees are prohibited from assisting any person or company, including customers and joint venture partners, to transfer funds or property from one country to another.

Record Retention

All employees must make themselves aware of retention guidelines prior to the disposal, or destruction of any Company records or files. This is necessary because of laws and regulations that require retention of certain records for various periods of time, particularly in the tax, personnel, health and safety, environment, contract and corporate structure areas.

Furthermore, when litigation or an investigation is pending, relevant records, (including records in electronic format), must not be destroyed. Destruction or falsification of any potentially relevant document may lead to prosecution for obstruction of justice or making false statements. Therefore, if you have any doubt about the legality of destroying any document, consult with your immediate supervisor or your department head before doing so.

Insider Trading

Employees and Company agents who are aware of material, non-public information about the Company, (“insider information”), are not permitted, directly or through family members or other persons or entities, to:

- Buy or sell securities (or derivatives relating to such securities) of Bristow, including transfers in or out of the Company stock funds in the Employee Savings Plan (other than pursuant to a pre-approved trading plan that complies with the SEC Rule 10b5-1); or

- Pass on, tip or disclose material, non-public information to others outside the Company including family and friends.

When insider information has been publicly disclosed, an employee must continue to refrain from buying or selling the securities in question until the beginning of the third business day after the information has been publicly released to allow the markets time to absorb the information.

Guidelines

Examples of Insider Information:

- The gain or loss of a significant customer that has not been publicly disclosed
- Undisclosed negotiations and agreements regarding mergers, concessions, joint ventures, divestitures, etc.
- Undisclosed financial results or changes in earnings projections
- Undisclosed management changes
- Information that is considered confidential
- Any other undisclosed information that could affect stock price

Do not buy or sell Bristow stock based on this type of information.

Taxes

It is the policy of the Company to pay all applicable taxes levied against the Company or its operations. Employees are prohibited from assisting any person or company, including the Company's customers, joint venture partners, or employees, from evading any applicable taxes.

Please remember that we encourage you to raise any questions or concerns about these policies. If for any reason you are uncomfortable reporting those concerns to your supervisor or with the reporting requirements set out above, you may report concerns and violations confidentially, without giving your name, to THE NETWORK at 1-888-840-4147 for calls within the U.S., or 770-582-5277 for calls from most countries outside the U.S., or on THE NETWORK web reporting system at reportlineweb.com/bristow.

No adverse action will be taken against any employee for making a complaint or disclosing information in good faith. Any employee who retaliates in any way against an employee who in good faith reports any violation or suspected violation of these policies will be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including termination.

Integrity to Customers, Suppliers, and Communities

This section contains Company policies and guidance on the following:

- COMPLIANCE WITH LAWS
- ILLEGAL PAYMENTS
- FACILITATION PAYMENTS
- INTERMEDIARIES
- GIFTS AND HOSPITALITY GENERALLY
- GIFTS
- HOSPITALITY
- GOVERNMENT OR CUSTOMER VISITS TO THE COMPANY
- U.S. GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES
- POLITICAL CONTRIBUTIONS
- CHARITABLE CONTRIBUTIONS
- FAIR COMPETITION
- FAIR DEALING
- CUSTOMER EMPLOYEES
- TRADE RESTRICTIONS
- ANTI-BOYCOTT LAWS

Compliance with Laws

It is the policy of the Company that all employees maintain the highest ethical standards and comply with all applicable laws and regulations when conducting Company business. Employees are prohibited from assisting any person or company, including customers and joint venture partners, in any activity which assists such person or entity in violating any law or regulation.

Illegal Payments

The Company is subject to various laws prohibiting illegal payments such as the U.S. Foreign Corrupt Practices Act of 1977, the UK Bribery Act 2010, and similar laws enacting the OECD, (Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development) and similar conventions on combating bribery of officials in international transactions. These laws place criminal sanctions on U.S., UK, and other companies and citizens who engage in bribery of government officials as well as those who engage in commercial bribery.

Additionally most countries where we do business have laws against bribery. We will always respect and apply these laws wherever we do business.

The Company, its employees, representatives, contractors, and authorized agents will not offer, make, or accept any illegal payment, bribe, kickback or other questionable inducement in any form, either directly or indirectly, including payments to expedite or perform routine governmental actions, (facilitation payments), unless (1) it is necessary to secure needed governmental services (e.g., police protection, medical evacuation) in response to a medical or safety emergency or (2) the person reasonably believes that he is in imminent jeopardy of serious harm and no other prudent alternatives are available. Any payments made under the exceptions provided in (1) or (2) above must be immediately reported in writing to the Director of Compliance and be accurately reflected in the Company's books and records.

Facilitation Payments

The Foreign Corrupt Practices Act permits certain small payments to foreign government officials to expedite non discretionary governmental tasks. Such payments, however, are usually prohibited under local laws and are also illegal under the UK Bribery Act 2010. Accordingly, the Company prohibits all facilitation payments subject to the medical and security exception described above. Guidance on dealing with requests for facilitation payments is available in the Business Integrity section of the Company's intranet site.

Intermediaries

The Company has business relationships with intermediaries such as custom agents, sales agents and joint venture companies. The Company and its employees may be liable for illegal payments made by an intermediary as they could be seen as being made on behalf of the Company. The fact that the Company did not authorize or have knowledge of such payment being made by the intermediary will not be a defense if there is a reason to believe or assume that such a payment may be made.

This policy on illegal payments applies equally to all of the Company's agents and other representatives. Where the Company has a majority interest or effective control in a joint venture, it will require the joint venture to adopt and comply with this policy. Where the Company does not have effective control, it will use best efforts to cause the joint venture to apply this policy.

To ensure compliance with this policy as it affects intermediaries, the Company has detailed policies and procedures for selecting and engaging intermediaries. These are available in the Business Integrity section of the Company's intranet site.

Gifts and Hospitality Generally

It is the policy of the Company to deal with all of its customers and suppliers honestly, openly and impartially, based on the philosophy that business should be won or lost based solely on the merit of the products and services that are being provided.

Employees are strictly prohibited from offering or receiving any item of value or business courtesy except as set out in this Code, including gifts or hospitality, which are:

- paid or received in cash or cash equivalent,
- based on the quantity or volume of merchandise or services to be purchased or sold,
- offered in return for a specific decision or outcome, or
- made with the expectation that it will influence a decision.

Gifts

Gifts are only permitted if they are of nominal value, such as advertising trinkets bearing a company logo – hats, t-shirts, pens and the like. Any other types of gifts are normally not permitted. Exceptionally, advance approval to give or receive gifts in excess of nominal value may be obtained from the CEO or any member of the senior management team with business or functional reporting line responsibility for the employee requesting approval. The CEO must approve any gifts in excess of nominal value given by or received from a member of the senior management team.

Hospitality

Hospitality must be reasonable, must be for a business purpose, and must not be so frequent as to suggest a pattern. Hospitality can include such items as occasional business meals and beverages, transportation to or from a business function, or a round of golf.

Where hospitality with a customer or supplier necessitates that the value given or received exceeds $250, the hospitality must be approved by any member of the senior management team with business or reporting line responsibility for the employee requesting approval. The CEO must approve any hospitality exceeding $250 given by or received from a member of the senior management team. Where business hospitality exceeds $2,000 in value, the hospitality must be approved by the CEO.

Copies of all approvals for gifts or hospitality will be sent to the Director of Compliance at the end of each fiscal quarter, who in turn will present a summary to the Board of Directors.

Guidelines

Gifts, hospitality & reimbursement of expenses should be:

- Made without creating obligation or expectations – the gift or hospitality should not place the recipient under any obligation and should not create any expectations in the giver.
- Made openly – if made secretly then the purpose will be suspect.
- In accord with stakeholder perception – would not be viewed unfavorably by stakeholders if made known to them.
- Of reasonable value – the gift should be small, and value of hospitality should accord with general business practice.
- Appropriate – the nature of the gift or hospitality should be appropriate to the relationship and should accord with general business practice.
- Legal – should conform to the laws of the country in which it is made, as well as other laws which the Company is required to comply with.
- In conformity with the recipients rules – the gift or hospitality should meet the rules or code of conduct of the receiving organization.
- Infrequent – such giving and receiving should not be regular between the giver and receiver.

Government or Customer Visits to the Company

As a general rule, payments to foreign government officials that otherwise may be prohibited by laws against bribery are permitted only if they are made as a reasonable and bona fide expenditure directly related to either promotional activities or the execution or performance of a contract with a foreign government. For example, the Company may pay reasonable travel and lodging expenses of an official coming to visit our offices for a necessary demonstration or to sign a contract. Approvals for such visits must be obtained per the Guidelines described in the Hospitality Section of this Code.

U.S. Government Employees

Employees of the U.S. Government are restricted from accepting items of value in their conduct of business, including many nominal items which are permissible with commercial customers. It is the Company's policy to prohibit the offering of items of value, other than minimal refreshments during meetings (e.g., coffee and donuts, soft drinks, cookies or snacks, with an aggregate retail value of $20 or less) to U.S. Government employees.

Any exception must be requested in advance to the Director of Compliance, who will co-ordinate with legal counsel to ensure that no laws and/or contract obligations will be violated.

Political Contributions

The Company generally does not make political contributions and employees are prohibited from making political contributions on behalf of the Company.

Exceptionally, the Chief Executive Officer may give prior written approval for a political contribution or an activity or service provided by the Company to government officials, office-holders or political candidates.

Annually, each entity is required to submit a summary of all political contributions made during the fiscal year. This should be completed and delivered to the Director of Compliance at the end of each fiscal quarter, who in turn will present a summary to the Board of Directors.

Charitable Contributions

Requests for charitable contributions from customers, suppliers or any other entity with which the Company has a business relationship, may be granted favorable consideration, if doing so does not violate applicable law, but only if the contribution cannot be misconstrued as improperly influencing a business relationship.

Corporate charity allows us to support the communities where we operate and can enhance the Company's reputation. However, in certain circumstances a charitable contribution could be perceived as a bribe, and where this is the case it is prohibited.

Guidelines

Charitable Contributions:

- The donation should be public.
- The donation should fulfill a genuine need that has been established through local consultation.
- The charity should be administered by a well managed organization which publishes accounts.
- There should be a tangible local connection (e.g., a donation to a hospital used by Company employees).

Charitable contributions of less than $1000 must be pre-approved by a member of the senior management team. Charitable contributions of $1000 or greater must be pre-approved by the CEO.

Annually, each entity is required to submit a summary of all charitable contributions made during the fiscal year. This should be completed and delivered to the Director of Compliance at the end of each fiscal quarter, who in turn will present a summary to the Board of Directors.

Fair Competition

The purpose of competition (antitrust) laws is to provide a level playing field to economic competitors and to promote fair competition.

No employee, under any circumstances, may enter into any understanding or agreement with an actual or potential competitor which would illegally limit or restrict in any way either party's actions.

This prohibition includes any action relating to prices, costs, profits, products, services, terms or conditions of sale, market share or customer or supplier classification or selection.

Fair Dealing

No Employee should take unfair advantage of anyone through manipulation, concealment or abuse of privileged information, misrepresentation of material facts or any other unfair-dealing business practice.

Employees of the Company have an obligation to protect confidential customer information which comes into their possession, to the same extent as if it was the property of the Company. In addition, this makes good business sense. Furthermore, it is a violation of applicable law to trade in a customer's securities at a time when the employee has material insider information concerning the customer.

The Company buys many goods and services from third parties. In transacting such business, it is the policy of the Company to select vendors and contractors based on merit, without favoritism, and whenever practicable, on a competitive basis.

Customer Employees

It is the policy of the Company that no employee of a current or prospective customer may be employed or engaged to provide any services to the Company, whilst that customer employee has an employment or other business relationship with that customer.

Trade Restrictions

Several countries impose trade restrictions and export controls to protect their national security and to promote foreign policy. The Company is subject to these laws and failure to abide by them may lead to civil or criminal penalties against the Company and its involved employees, as well as loss of export privileges.

In addition, U.S. restrictions include prohibitions against dealing with specifically identified countries, persons, or entities acting on their behalf. The U.S. restrictions also provide that specific licenses must be received before the export or re-export of U.S. origin products, services or technology to specified countries or entities, as well as to certain end-users or for specified end-uses.

You are expected to obtain advice from appropriate management before you make any commitments concerning export or re-export of goods, services, technology or software. Even a conversation with a foreign national that discloses technical information may in some circumstances be considered an export.

Anti-Boycott Laws

The U.S. has anti-boycott laws which restrict U.S. companies and their subsidiaries from complying with boycotts promoted by other countries. These laws mainly apply to the boycott of Israel by Arab nations. The laws in this area are complex, but center on restricting the Company from responding to requests for information about or place indirect restrictions on the Company's business dealings with Israel. Such requests are usually contained in invitations to tender, commercial contracts and shipping documents. Accordingly employees must report all such requests and seek guidance on answering them before responding.

Please remember that we encourage you to raise any questions or concerns about these policies.

If for any reason you are uncomfortable reporting those concerns to your supervisor or with the reporting requirements set out above, you may report concerns and violations confidentially, without giving your name, to THE NETWORK at 1-888-840-4147 for calls within the U.S., or 770-582-5277 for calls from most countries outside the U.S., or on THE NETWORK web reporting system at reportlineweb.com/bristow.

No adverse action will be taken against any employee for making a complaint or disclosing information in good faith. Any employee who retaliates in any way against an employee who in good faith reports any violation or suspected violation of these policies will be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including termination.

Integrity in Dealing with Company Assets

This section contains Company policies and guidance on the following:

- CONFLICTS OF INTEREST AND CORPORATE OPPORTUNITIES
- CONFIDENTIALITY
- PROTECTION AND USE OF COMPANY ASSETS

Conflicts of Interest and Corporate Opportunities

A conflict of interest exists whenever your private interests, (or those of close relatives or people with whom you are in close personal or business contact), conflict in any way, (or even appear to conflict), with the interests of the Company. Any business, financial or other relationship with suppliers, customers or competitors that might influence, or appear to influence, the exercise of your judgment is prohibited.

It is not possible to define all the situations that can involve a conflict of interest. In most cases, however, good judgment should be sufficient to evaluate a situation. If you have any doubt about whether a conflict exists contact your supervisor for guidance.

Here are some examples of situations which are or may appear to be conflicts of interest:

- doing business for the Company with organizations where your family members work or which are owned by your family members or close friends,
- holding a position with or doing work for a customer or competitor other than within the scope of your duties to the Company,
- having any substantial economic interest, either directly or indirectly, in any organization that transacts business with the Company or is in competition with the Company,
- accepting, directly or indirectly, any personal advantage given to you in your capacity as an employee of the Company except for permitted gifts and hospitality (see section of this Code which deals with gifts and hospitality),
- conducting Company business with a close relative or with an organization with which you or one of your close relatives is associated,

- taking personally (or for members of your immediate family) any opportunity that may be of interest to the Company,
- using company property, information or position for direct or indirect personal gain, or
- competing with the Company.

Confidentiality

Employees are prohibited from releasing any confidential Company information to an unauthorized fellow employee or to anyone outside the Company, unless authorized by an officer of the Company.

Company confidential information includes information which is not available to the public, such as:

- Information on acquisitions or divestitures, new developments or techniques, major changes in management or organization, prices paid or received for goods or services, financial condition, significant contracts, budgets, forecasts and the like.
- Information that is learned about other companies, (such as suppliers, customers and business partners), in the course of Company business, and
- Employee personal information.

Such confidential and proprietary information is the exclusive property of the Company. The obligation to preserve confidential information continues even after employment or other relationship with the Company ends.

Special care is required regarding the public release of information concerning the Company's business, strategies, activities, and plans, the disclosure of which could influence investors trading in the Company's securities. All media contact and public statements and discussions of Company business should be coordinated with the Chief Financial Officer.

Protection and Use of Company Assets

Employees should protect Company assets and ensure their efficient use. Company assets must be used only for legitimate business purposes. Company property shall not be sold, loaned or given away regardless of condition or value, without proper authorization.

Company assets include equipment, buildings, tools, funds, accounts, supplies, computer programs, information technology, documents, know-how, data, patents, trademarks, copyrights and any other resources or property of the Company, such as employee time during working hours.

We must protect against waste, loss, damage, misuse, theft, misappropriation or infringement of the Company's assets and we must use these assets in responsible ways.

In addition, we must be vigilant regarding access to our assets by others. Any such access to the Company's intellectual or physical assets must be limited to authorized persons for an authorized business purpose.

Please remember that we encourage you to raise any questions or concerns about these policies. If for any reason you are uncomfortable reporting those concerns to your supervisor or with the reporting requirements set out above, you may report concerns and violations confidentially, without giving your name, to THE NETWORK at 1-888-840-4147 for calls within the U.S., or 770-582-5277 for calls from most countries outside the U.S., or on THE NETWORK web reporting system at reportlineweb.com/bristow.

No adverse action will be taken against any employee for making a complaint or disclosing information in good faith. Any employee who retaliates in any way against an employee who in good faith reports any violation or suspected violation of these policies will be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including termination.
