

Code of Business Conduct and Ethics

This Code of Business Conduct and Ethics (this "Code") provides a general statement of the Company's expectations regarding the ethical standards that each director, officer and team member should adhere to while acting on behalf of the Company. This Code contains compliance standards and procedures to facilitate its effectiveness and to ensure a prompt and consistent response to violations. Each director, officer, and team member is required to read and become familiar with the ethical standards described in this Code. It is not intended to and does not in any way constitute an employment contract or assurance of continued employment, and does not create any rights in any director, officer, team member, client, supplier, competitor, stockholder or any other person or entity.

Ethical standards mandate accountability and adherence to this Code. Accordingly, any conduct or action that violates this Code may be subject to corrective action, which may include immediate termination.

Administration

The Corporate Governance/Nominating Committee of the Board of Directors of O'Reilly Automotive, Inc. (the "Company"), referred to in this Code as the Governing Body, is responsible for setting the standards of business conduct contained in this Code and updating these standards as it deems appropriate to reflect changes in the legal and regulatory framework applicable to the Company, the business practices within the Company's industry, the Company's own business practices, and the prevailing ethical standards of the communities in which the Company operates. The Company's Internal Auditor will act as the Compliance Officer and will oversee the procedures designed to implement this Code to ensure that they are operating effectively. It is the individual responsibility of each director, officer and team member of the Company to comply with this Code.

Conflicts of Interest

A conflict of interest may arise in any situation in which a team member's loyalties are divided between business interests that, to some degree, are incompatible with the interests of the company. All such conflicts should be avoided. The Company demands absolute integrity from all of its team members and will not tolerate any conduct that falls short of this standard. The Company expects that no team member will knowingly place himself or herself in a position that would have the appearance of being, or could be construed to be, in conflict with the interests of the company. Some of the more sensitive areas of conflicts of interest are discussed below.

A conflict situation can arise when a director, officer or team member takes actions or has interests that may make it difficult to perform his or her work objectively and effectively. Conflicts of interest may also arise when a director, officer or team member, or a member of his or her family, receives improper personal benefits as a result of his or her position in the Company, whether received from the Company or third party. Federal law prohibits loans by the Company to its directors and executive officers. It is a conflict of interest for a Company team member to work simultaneously for a competitor, customer, or supplier. In addition, directors, officers and team members are not allowed to work for a competitor as a consultant or board member.

Conflicts of interest are prohibited as a matter of Company policy, except as approved by the Corporate Governance/Nominating Committee of the Board of Directors. Where there is an actual or potential conflict of interest or perception of a conflict of interest, the director, officer or team member must make full disclosure and must not participate in the matter giving rise to the conflict. Such person may, in accordance with such procedures, refrain or be asked to refrain from participating and/or making decisions concerning any business that is related to the matter in which there is an actual or potential conflict of interest.

Any director, officer or team member who becomes aware of a conflict of interest or potential conflict of interest should bring it to the attention of the Compliance Officer, a supervisor, manager or other appropriate personnel or consult the procedures discussed in this Code. Directors, officers and team members who knowingly fail to disclose conflicts of interest are subject to disciplinary action, including dismissal or removal from office.

Unless approved in advance by a team member's supervisor, neither a team member or his or her spouse, domestic partner, or any other member of the team member's immediate family may directly or indirectly have a financial interest (whether as an investor, lender, employee or other service provider) in a competitor, or in a customer or supplier if that team member or his or her subordinates deal directly or indirectly with that customer or supplier in the course of his or her job with the company.

All team members are responsible for the proper use of the Company's physical resources and property, as well as its proprietary and other confidential information. Company property, facilities or physical resources may not be used for solicitation or distribution activities that are not related to a team member's services to the company, except for charitable activities that have been approved in advance by the company.

Corporate Opportunities

No director, officer or team member may: (a) take for himself or herself personal opportunities that are discovered through the use of Company property, information or position; (b) use Company property, information or position for personal gain; or (c) compete with the Company. Directors, officers and team members owe a duty of loyalty to the Company, and must be committed to ethically advance its legitimate interests when the opportunity to do so arises.

Confidentiality

All directors, officers and team members must maintain the integrity of confidential information entrusted to them by the Company, its business partners, suppliers, customers or others related to the Company's business. Confidential information includes all non-public information that might be of use to competitors or harmful to the Company, or its customers, if disclosed. Typical of such information are business, research, and new product plans; objectives and strategies; trade secrets; unpublished financial or pricing information; processes and formulas; computer programs; salary and benefits data; team member medical information; team member, customer, and supplier lists. Disclosure of confidential information violates Company policy and could result in disciplinary action, except when authorized by legal counsel as required by laws, regulations or legal proceedings. If any director, officer or team member believes they have a legal obligation to disclose confidential information, they should consult the Company's legal counsel.

Any Company information created in the course of employment belongs to the Company. Team members leaving the Company must return all written proprietary information in their possession. A team member's obligation to protect the Company's proprietary and confidential information continues even after he or she leaves the Company.

Protection and Proper Use of Company Assets

Safeguarding Company assets is the responsibility of all directors, officers and team members. All directors, officers and team members should protect the Company's assets and ensure their efficient use. Theft, carelessness, and waste have a direct impact on the Company's profitability. Any suspected incident of fraud or theft should be immediately reported for investigation to the VP of Loss Prevention or Compliance Officer. All Company assets should be used for legitimate business purposes. The personal use of Company assets without permission is prohibited.

Fair Dealing

The Company considers its reputation for integrity and fairness one of its most valuable assets. Each director, officer and team member shall endeavor to deal fairly and in good faith with the Company's customers, stockholders, team members, suppliers, regulators, business partners, competitors and others. We seek to outperform our competition fairly and honestly. We seek competitive advantages through superior performance, never through unethical or illegal business practices. No director, officer or team member shall take unfair advantage of anyone through manipulation, concealment, abuse of privileged or confidential information, misrepresentation, fraudulent behavior, possessing trade secret information that was obtained without the owner's consent or through any other unfair dealing practice. No actions shall be taken by any Company director, officer or team member, which could undermine proper relationships or tarnish the Company's reputation or integrity.

The Lead Independent Director shall have such other authority, responsibilities and duties as determined by the Board.

Foreign Corrupt Practices Act

The U.S. Foreign Corrupt Practices Act prohibits giving anything of value directly or indirectly to officials of foreign governments or foreign political candidates in order to obtain or retain business. In addition, the promise, offer or delivery to an official or team member of the U.S. Government of a gift, favor or other gratuity in violation of these rules would not only violate Company policy but could also be a criminal offense. State and local governments, as well as foreign governments, may have similar rules. Please consult the Compliance Officer to obtain guidance from Company legal counsel in this area.

Compliance with Laws, Rules, and Regulations

The Company expects all directors, officers and team members of the Company to comply in all respects with the laws and regulations that apply to its business at all government levels. In addition, the Company requires that its directors, officers and team members comply with work-place policies and applicable laws and regulations. Although not all team members are expected to know details of all laws, it is important to recognize when to seek advice from supervisors.

This Code does not summarize all laws, rules and regulations applicable to the Company and its directors, officers and team members. Please consult the Compliance Officer for various guidelines the Company has prepared on specific laws, rules and regulations, or to obtain further guidance from the Company's legal counsel.
