

VALERO ENERGY CORPORATION
CODE OF BUSINESS CONDUCT AND ETHICS

Introduction

This Code of Business Conduct and Ethics covers a wide range of business practices. Its purpose is to guide the employees and directors of Valero Energy Corporation and its subsidiaries (“Valero” or the “Company”) to conduct that is fair, ethical, honest, and lawful. Employees and directors are expected to follow the principles stated in this Code, and should seek to avoid even the appearance of improper behavior. Employees should never do – or be asked to do – anything in the course of their duties that would violate the law, this Code, or other Company policy. This Code represents one component of the Company’s business ethics program. Additional principles and guidelines are stated in Valero’s comprehensive set of policies and procedures that are published on Valero’s intranet site.

You should report any known or suspected misconduct or unethical behavior through the channels described in Article XIII of this Code. Those who violate the standards in this Code will be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment.

Note to employees based outside the United States: Certain sections of this Code may conflict with the local laws and regulations of your country. Consult your local legal counsel for advice if you perceive a conflict.

Article I. Conflicts of Interest & Corporate Opportunities

1. A conflict of interest exists when a person’s private interest interferes with the interests of the Company. A conflict can arise when a person takes actions or has interests that may make it difficult to perform his or her Company duties objectively. Conflicts of interest may also arise when an employee or director (or family member) receives improper personal benefits as a result of his or her position in the Company. You should avoid transactions, commitments, and other activities that are not in Valero’s best interests or that could involve a conflict between your personal interests and the interests of Valero, or which could involve a conflict in connection with the bid, award, or administration of a federal contract.
2. Valero has established a Conflicts of Interest Committee (COI Committee) to help administer Valero’s conflicts policy. If you are not sure if a particular situation is a conflict of interest, contact the COI Committee for an objective determination of your issue. The COI Committee can be reached through Valero’s internal audit department. The full text of Valero’s conflict of interest policy is available on the Company’s intranet. The policy can be accessed on the intranet under Service Center > Corporate Policies > HR Policies > Employee Guide > Conflict of Interest.
3. Employees and directors may not take for their personal benefit any opportunity that is discovered through the use of Company property, information, or position without first obtaining the consent of the board of directors. You may not use Company property, information, or position for improper personal gain, and may not compete with Valero directly or indirectly. The full text of the Company’s policy on these matters is contained in Valero’s conflict of interest policy which can be accessed on the Company’s intranet under Service Center > Corporate Policies > HR Policies > Employee Guide > Conflict of Interest.

Article II. Confidentiality

You must maintain the confidentiality of information entrusted to you by Valero or its customers, except when disclosure is required by law or regulation. This includes all non-public information that might be of use to competitors, or detrimental to Valero or its customers if disclosed, and includes information that suppliers and customers have entrusted to Valero. The obligation to preserve confidential information continues even after your employment ends. Employees are required to sign a Confidentiality and Inventions Agreement upon beginning employment with the Company. Copies of this agreement are available from Valero's human resources department.

Article III. Fair Dealing, Antitrust and Competition

1. Valero seeks to outperform its competition fairly and honestly. Stealing proprietary information, using trade secret information that was obtained without the owner's consent, or inducing such disclosures by past or present employees of other companies is prohibited. You are expected to respect the rights of – and deal fairly with – Valero's customers, suppliers, competitors, and employees. You may not take unfair advantage of anyone through manipulation, concealment, abuse of privileged information, misrepresentation of material facts, or any other intentional practice of unfair-dealing.
2. You must comply with all antitrust laws regulating antitrust and competition. For example, the following actions are prohibited:
 - fixing or controlling prices with any competitors;
 - dividing or sharing customers, markets, or territories;
 - participating with others to block the production or sale of another's products or services;
 - participating in price discrimination;
 - creating or planning with others to create a monopoly; and
 - boycotting certain customers or suppliers.

Follow the reporting guidelines stated in this Code if you suspect, witness, or experience any of these practices. You may not discuss pricing or other competitive matters with Valero's competitors and should avoid situations that appear to include these types of discussions.

Article IV. Relationships with Vendors and Contractors

The purpose of business entertainment and gifts in a commercial setting is to create goodwill and sound working relationships, not to gain unfair advantage with customers. Whenever you are working collaboratively with vendors, contractors, and other third-parties (including representatives of government agencies) it is important to follow sound business practices to avoid putting yourself in a position in which you feel like you owe a vendor. If you or persons who report to you are invited to take part in dinner or lunch functions, or golfing, hunting, fishing, or other entertainment excursions, you are expected to use the following guidelines in your decision-making.

- Meals and other events should always serve a valid business purpose, such as project planning, status meetings, recognizing a significant joint business achievement, etc.
- The event to which you are invited should not be, and should not appear to be, extravagant or excessive.
- Excessive consumption of alcohol and visiting establishments that are in poor taste are prohibited.

- Employees should never request gifts, entertainment, trips or meals from vendors.
- Acceptance of gifts from vendors is not encouraged, but is acceptable if the gifts are not excessive in value.
- All trips and excursions (including hunting, fishing, and golfing trips) must be approved before being accepted. Approval must be obtained from the plant manager for all refining and renewables personnel. For retail, pipeline, terminal, and corporate employees, approval must be obtained from the business group's division head.

Article V. Protection and Proper Use of Company Assets

1. Company assets are to be used for legitimate business purposes. Company equipment should not be used for non-Company business, though occasional, incidental personal use may be permitted. Employees are expected to protect Valero's assets and ensure their efficient use. Theft, carelessness, and waste have a direct impact on Valero's profitability. Any suspected incidents of fraud or theft should be immediately reported for investigation.
2. Acquisitions and dispositions of assets are subject to the Company's Approval Authority Policy. Before committing Valero to acquire or dispose of any asset, you should consult the Approval Authority Policy to ensure that you have the requisite authority to do so. This policy can be accessed on the Company's intranet under Service Center > Corporate Policies > Approval Authority Policy (in the "Accounting and Finance" section).
3. All technology that is made available to Valero's users – and all associated hardware, software, and systems – are the property of Valero. Your use of such technology is subject to Valero's Electronic Communications Policy. This policy can be accessed on the intranet under Service Center > Corporate Policies > Electronic Communications Agreement (in the "I/S" section).
4. The obligation of employees to protect Valero's assets includes its proprietary information. Proprietary information includes intellectual property such as trade secrets, patents, trademarks, and copyrights, as well as business, marketing and service plans, engineering and manufacturing ideas, designs, databases, records, and any unpublished financial data and reports. Unauthorized use or distribution of this information is a violation of Company policy.

Article VI. Compliance with Laws, Rules, and Regulations

Obeying the law, both in letter and in spirit, is the foundation on which Valero's business ethics standards are built. Valero has operations in several countries. You are expected to obey all local, regional, and federal laws of the locations where Valero operates. Although not all employees are expected to know all of the details of these laws, it is important that you know enough to determine when to seek advice from supervisors, managers, Valero's legal department, or other appropriate personnel. If a law conflicts with a policy in this Code, you must comply with the law. If you have a question about any conflict, ask your supervisor how to handle the situation.

Article VII. Anti-Bribery and International Trade

1. The U.S. Foreign Corrupt Practices Act (FCPA) prohibits offering or giving anything of value, directly or indirectly, to foreign officials for the purpose of obtaining or retaining business or an improper business advantage, or for the purpose of otherwise influencing the decisions of such officials. Bribery is also prohibited under the United Kingdom Bribery Act (UKBA). Under the UKBA, the crime of bribery occurs when a person offers, gives, or promises to give a financial benefit or other advantage to another individual – whether a private person or public official – in exchange for improperly performing a certain function or activity. The UKBA also prohibits requesting, accepting, or agreeing to accept such an improper advantage. The UKBA applies not only to conduct in the United Kingdom, but in any other jurisdiction. Both the FCPA and UKBA subject offenders to potential criminal liability. Valero employees and agents – wherever they may be located or do business – are strictly prohibited from making illegal payments or bribes to government officials or any other persons. Always consult your supervisor and your local legal department if you are faced with or become aware of any situation that could potentially violate these laws and regulations.
2. You must also comply with laws that govern international trade operations. Some countries' laws prohibit persons and businesses from participating in or cooperating with international trade embargoes or sanctions that have been imposed by other countries. For example, anti-boycott laws in the United States penalize U.S. companies if they cooperate with or participate in international boycotts not supported by the United States. This same law requires companies that receive requests to participate in or cooperate with such boycotts to report them to the appropriate U.S. government official. Therefore, if you receive a request of this sort, immediately report it to Valero's legal department.

Article VIII. Securities and Insider Trading

1. You must avoid any appearance of trading in securities on the basis of material, nonpublic information. Persons who have access to material, nonpublic information are not permitted to use or share that information for stock trading purposes – or for any other purpose – except to conduct Valero's business. You should consider all nonpublic information about Valero to be confidential. To use nonpublic information for personal financial benefit or to "tip" others who might make an investment decision on the basis of this information is both unethical and unlawful.
2. To assist with compliance with insider trading laws, Valero has adopted its Employee Trading of Securities policy governing the trading of Valero securities. This policy can be accessed on the Company's intranet under Service Center > Corporate Policies > Employee Trading of Securities (in the "Legal" section). If you are unsure whether certain Company information is material or whether a trade in securities is permitted, you should consult Valero's Corporate Secretary before trading. In addition, certain officers, directors, and employees in key positions have been designated as "restricted persons" who must contact Valero's Corporate Secretary and receive advance approval prior to placing any order to purchase or sell securities of the Company.

Article IX. Health, Safety and Environment

1. The protection of Valero's employees, contractors, customers, communities, and the environment is Valero's highest priority and a core business value. Valero is committed to achieving health, safety, and environmental excellence throughout the Company. Every employee is expected to conduct business in accordance with this commitment. The full text of Valero's health, safety, and environmental commitment can be accessed on the intranet under Service Center > Corporate Policies > HSE Commitment (in the "Refinery Operations" section).
2. Valero strives to provide each employee with a safe and healthy work environment. Each employee is responsible for maintaining a safe and healthy workplace for all by following all of Valero's safety rules and practices and by reporting accidents, injuries, and unsafe equipment, practices, or conditions in a timely manner.
3. Valero strictly prohibits violent or threatening behavior by employees, consultants, customers, or anyone else on Company premises. Additional information on Valero's security, search, and violence-in-the-workplace policies can be accessed on the Company's intranet under the Service Center caption by selecting the links to (a) Corporate Policies > Security and Search Policy (in the "Human Resources" section), and (b) Corporate Policies > HR Policies > Employee Guide > Security.
4. Employees are prohibited from consuming alcohol at work and from reporting to work after consuming alcohol. The use of alcohol off the job that impairs performance on the job is also prohibited. The use, distribution, purchase, possession, or manufacture of illegal drugs is also prohibited. To ensure that the workplace remains free from drug and alcohol abuse, Valero has adopted a substance abuse prevention policy. The full text of this policy can be accessed on the Company's intranet under Service Center > Corporate Policies > HR Policies > Employee Guide > Substance Abuse Policy. Valero conducts drug and alcohol testing as a part of its substance abuse prevention efforts. Valero's drug and alcohol testing policies are contained in separate documents which may be obtained through Valero's human resources department and which are provided to all newly hired employees.

Article X. Discrimination and Harassment

1. Valero is committed to employ qualified individuals without regard to race, color, gender, religion, sexual orientation, national origin, age, disability, veteran status, or any other category protected by law. Valero is an affirmative action employer and maintains affirmative action procedures and practices to fulfill the objectives of this policy. Valero is committed to providing equal opportunity in all aspects of employment and to providing a work environment free from discrimination and harassment. Examples of prohibited conduct include derogatory comments based on racial or ethnic characteristics, unwanted sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, verbal or physical behavior of a sexual nature that interferes with an employee's work performance or creates a threatening, hostile, or offensive work environment.
2. Valero's primary policies for these issues are its Equal Employment Opportunity and Affirmative Action policy and its Harassment policy. These policies can be accessed on the Company's intranet under Service Center > Corporate Policies > HR Policies > Employee Guide > Equal Employment Opportunity and Affirmative Action and -Harassment. The Harassment policy describes prohibited conduct, steps for reporting harassment, investigations of complaints, and consequences for retaliation against persons who report harassment.

Immediately contact your supervisor and/or the human resources department regarding any situation that could be considered discrimination or harassment.

Article XI. Books, Records, Record-Keeping

1. Valero's books, records, accounts, and financial statements must be maintained in accordance with generally accepted accounting standards, and must conform to applicable legal requirements and to Valero's system of internal controls. Effective internal controls related to financial reporting and the safeguarding of assets are required at the source of each financial transaction and not just in the accounting department. Employees are responsible for complying with Valero's internal controls over financial reporting. The full text of Valero's internal controls policy can be accessed on Valero's intranet under Service Center > Corporate Policies > Sarbanes-Oxley Guidelines (in the "Accounting and Finance" section).
2. Employees are expected to report fraud and any improper or otherwise unethical accounting or auditing practices. You may anonymously submit your good faith concern regarding fraud or questionable accounting or auditing matters without fear of dismissal or retaliation by following the procedures described in Article XII of this Code under the caption Special Complaint Procedures for Accounting, Auditing and Fraud Matters.
3. Valero requires honest and accurate recording and reporting of information in order to make appropriate and responsible business decisions. For example, only the true and actual number of hours worked by an employee or contractor should be reported. Business expense accounts must be documented and recorded accurately. If you are unsure whether a certain expense is legitimate, ask your supervisor or your controller. All requests for reimbursement must adhere to the requirements in Valero's travel policy which can be accessed on the intranet under Service Center > Corporate Policies > Travel and Expense Reporting Policy (in the "Human Resources" section).
4. Valero's records and information are valuable Company assets, and are identified, maintained, and safeguarded as an essential part of the operation of Company business. Records are to be retained or destroyed according to the Company's record retention policy, which can be accessed on the intranet under Service Center > Corporate Policies > Records & Information Management Services (in the "I/S" section).

Article XII. Relationships with Governmental Entities

1. Valero's relationships with government agencies, officials, and personnel shall be conducted in such a manner that complete public disclosure would not embarrass or damage Valero's business reputation. Employees shall comply with all laws, rules, and regulations concerning contributions and gratuities to government agencies, officials, and personnel, including the Anti-Bribery policy discussed in Article VII. above. The governments where Valero operates have laws and regulations regarding the business gratuities that may be (or may not be) accepted by government personnel. The promise, offer, or delivery to a government official or employee of a gift, favor, or other gratuity in violation of these rules would not only violate Company policy but could also be a criminal offense.
2. When Valero accepts U.S. government contracts or subcontracts, Valero has an obligation to ensure that it administers those contracts and deliver its products and services in a manner that fully complies with federal procurement laws and regulations, as well as Valero's own high standards. Employees should take care to ensure against fraud, bribery, gratuities, conflicts of interest, false claims, overcharging, and any other unethical behavior in connection with U.S.

Department of Defense and other government contracts. Laws and regulations pertaining to government contracts are often complex and impose serious civil and criminal penalties for improper practices. You are expected to report any improper or otherwise unethical practices relating to the bid, award, or administration of any Department of Defense or other federal contract. You may anonymously submit your good faith concern without fear of dismissal or retaliation by following the procedures described in Article XIII of this Code under the caption Special Complaint Procedures for Accounting, Auditing, and Fraud Matters.

Article XIII. Reporting Illegal or Unethical Behavior

1. All persons subject to this Code are encouraged to preserve Valero's highest standards for business ethics and integrity. Report all theft, fraud, bribery, environmental crime, violations of this Code, violations of Company policy, misconduct, unethical behavior related to federal contracts, and any other business misconduct to your supervisor, your human resources representative, or through Valero's business abuse hotline "The Network" (a confidential hotline reporting number). Article XIV. Steps to Compliance

In some situations, it is difficult to know if a violation of this Code has occurred or is occurring. Because the Code cannot anticipate every situation that will arise, it is important to have a way to approach new questions or problems. The following are steps to keep in mind when facing a question of ethics:

- Make sure you have all the facts. In order to reach the right solutions, be as fully informed as possible.
- Ask yourself: What specifically am I being asked to do? Does it seem unethical or improper? This will help you to focus on the specific question you are faced with and the alternatives available to you. Use your judgment and common sense. After you have obtained all of the facts you can, if something still seems unethical or improper, consider that your circumstance is risky enough to warrant taking further steps to avoid or prevent an unethical situation.
- Clarify your responsibility and role. In most situations, there is shared responsibility. Are your colleagues informed? It may help to get others involved and discuss the problem.
- Discuss the problem with your supervisor. This is the basic guidance for all situations. In many cases, your supervisor will be more knowledgeable about the question, and will appreciate being brought into the decision-making process. Remember that it is your supervisor's responsibility to help solve problems.
- Seek help from Company resources. In the rare case when it may not be appropriate to discuss an issue with your supervisor, or when you do not feel comfortable approaching your supervisor with your question, discuss it locally with your office manager or your human resources representative.
- Review Company policies. Remain knowledgeable about Valero's policies and procedures. Use the Company's intranet to stay informed about how the Company's policies affect your work environment and performance.

- Report ethical violations in confidence and without fear of retaliation. Article XIII of this Code describes the channels of reporting that are available to you. If your situation requires that your identity be kept secret, your anonymity will be protected. Valero does not permit retaliation of any kind against employees for good faith reports of business ethics violations.
- Ask first, act later: If you are unsure of what to do in any situation, seek guidance before you act.

Article XV. Waivers

Any waiver of this Code for executive officers or directors may be made only by the Board of Directors, and will be promptly disclosed as required by law or stock exchange regulation.
